

Speech Ray Lewis

Sentence	Metaphor/Simile	Rhetorical questions	Stories / anecdotes	Contrasts	Lists	Repetition	Moral conviction	Sentiment of the collective	Setting high expectations	Confidence in goals
I'm trying to tell y'all, God has never made a mistake.						X	X
He's never made one mistake.
Alright?		X
So it aint about one play.				X		X
Aint about nothing.
This year we did what we were supposed to do.			X				X
We fought as a team, we fought as a team.						X
There would be one Super Bowl champ crown at the end of this year.
That's it.
So the way we feel, somebody gonna feel like that tomorrow and somebody gonna feel like that in a week.						X		X
That's a fact.						X

And the fact is, we gotta come back and go to work to make sure we finish it next time.									X
That's all we gotta do.							X
Remember that men, God has never made a mistake, but don't came too far to drop our head.				X			X
Joe, you played your ass off.			X
You hear me, man?		X
I'm telling you man.
Don't ever — don't ever — drop your head when it comes to a loss, dog.						X	X
Cause theres too much pain outside of this that people really going through.							X
This right here makes us strong.							X
Let's understand who we are as a team.						X			X
Let's understand who we are as men, and let's make somebody smile when we walk out of here.						X			X

Hell yeah, we lost the game.
But so what?		X				X
So what?		X
I kept something inside of me so bad last night.			X
A X7 year old child, you know about the child, coach.
He passed X0:00 AM yesterday morning of bone cancer.
His mama called me bowling.
So sometimes you gonna ask yourself, how great is your pain, if he give you enough of the opportunity to come back and do it again.						X	X
We got an opportunity to keep going, men.						X	X			X
Let's be strong as a team, men.						X			X
Let's be who we are.
Ravens on three.
One two three Ravens!					X					